Maggie Robinson, owner of M Powered Coaching will be giving us an insight into Executive Coaching and describes it as follows:-

“Coaching principles, as used in professional sport, can be applied in a business context to make good performance even better - often exceeding individuals' own expectations.

Coaching is a structured conversation between two people, which unlocks their potential to become the very best they can be. When I work with you and your managers I will actively listen, ask powerful questions, encourage, support, challenge and build trust”.

We look forward to seeing you
